

SCHOOL HEALTH NURSES

Better health for better learning

Are you:

- A Registered Nurse?
- Passionate about the health and wellbeing of children and young people?
- Wanting to make a difference to the education of young people?

School Health Nurses provide:

- Hearing and vision screening
- Developmental checks
- Local, State and National health promotion initiatives
- Health education aligned with the Australian Curriculum

- Drop in clinics for students and families before school, after school and during recess
- Information and assistance in relation to issues including body esteem, resilience, mental wellbeing, healthy relationships, growth and development, nutrition, drugs and alcohol, sexual health and positive parenting for teenagers with babies
- Liaison for external health-related services.

The Department of Education is looking to employ additional school health nurses across district schools. Jobs will be advertised in July 2017.

Visit www.education.tas.gov.au for a list of participating schools or contact Anthony Millward for information. Phone 6165 5459 or email anthony.millward@education.tas.gov.au